BIGG Tip: The High Cost of Short Distractions - You're working on a project when your smartphone pings. You've got a new text message. Research shows distractions like that doubled participant's error rates. The more difficult the task, the harder it is to get back on track. What's the solution? Turn off phone and email alerts. Only check them at set times. Avoid the high cost of small distractions for your BIGG success! Get more tips from BIGG Success here.
