From the CEO/President

One of my passions from a young age has been the inter-workings of government on all levels, government policy, and how it impacts all of us. That explains my decade-plus-long foray into politics. I have always felt that it is our civic duty to be involved in our government on some level. That involvement not only includes running for office, it also includes building relationships with your elected officials and advocating for the things that could make your community better.

Part of our strategic plan at Vermilion Advantage involves stepping up our advocacy game. Last year, we took our arguments to the State Capitol where we were able to have a sit down with Governor Pritzker to discuss the hit we took when Quaker closed. In September, we met with our Congressional delegation in Washington, DC, to request federal assistance for our industrial redevelopment efforts in east Danville. These efforts were successful but not as successful as we'd like. Effective advocacy is a long-term process, and it is one we need to aggressively start now so it will pay big dividends in future years and even decades.

Being effective at lobbying for your community involves building long-term relationships with your elected officials. If built correctly, those relationships are based on trust and understanding, even when that official's viewpoint on a certain policy might differ from what Vermilion County needs. That relationship can only be built with repetition. After a few years in Springfield, I got used to seeing several groups on a regular basis. Groups like local Farm Bureau leaders, leaders from the area soil and water conservation boards, and area realtors came at least once a year. As a legislator, I learned what the priorities of these groups were, and I gained a valuable resource for making decisions on voting for or against legislation. If a complex bill came up and I needed direction on how it might impact my friends in these groups, I knew who I could call for advice.

To be the best we can be in the advocacy game, we are instituting an advocacy committee at Vermilion Advantage. The committee is tasked with setting the structure and process for building a legislative priority list. That priority list will be for policy that we push for on a Federal, State, and Local level. The goal will be to get all levels of our government to enact laws and policies that will help Vermilion County grow and prosper. The advocacy committee will be key to vetting that priority list, as the members will be the business leaders of the community with the expertise to direct us on the policies that will be most helpful.

It is time to step up our game on the advocacy front. Vermilion County will be on the radar of the decision-makers in Springfield and Washington starting today. It is time to make it count for our future, and Vermilion Advantage is going to get it done.

Valentine's Day – Lincoln's Birthday

By Rheanna Ollis, Community Relations Administrator

When most people think of February, Valentine's Day likely comes to mind. However, as someone from the Land of Lincoln and a history enthusiast, I'm also reminded that February 12th marks the birthday of our 16th president, Abraham Lincoln.

Known as "Honest Abe," President Lincoln holds a special place in the heart of Illinois, including Danville and Vermilion County, for his profound contributions and enduring legacy. Like Saint Valentine, Lincoln was ultimately killed because of his unwavering beliefs and actions. His powerful words from the Gettysburg Address, "Government of the people, by the people, for the people," still resonate today and connect directly to the concept of local governance.

Throughout his life, Lincoln faced decisions that would shape his future. From a childhood with a father who couldn't read or write to borrowing law books to teach himself and eventually becoming president, Lincoln overcame incredible odds. Who could have predicted that a young man from a small town, raised in poverty and constantly moving from place to place, would one day lead the United States? Lincoln's life teaches us that it takes determination and intentional choices to shape our future. That's what self-love is: owning your future and making decisions that set you on the path you want to follow, a message just as important as the one Valentine's Day celebrates.

Lincoln's deep love for humanity, justice, and hard work came with time, patience, and many trials along the way. As we reflect on his life, we're reminded that, like Lincoln, we all get to decide what is possible in our careers, our personal lives, and our communities. We all want to see the success of not just the City of Danville but of Vermilion County as a whole. Each one of you is vital to that success, whether you realize it or not. Whether you're boosting the local economy through your work, play, volunteerism, family life, or entrepreneurship, you are an integral part of this community. You belong here, and together, we all contribute to making this place better for everyone. In Danville, You Decide What's Possible.

Salt Fork School District: Deep Roots and Growing Success

Salt Fork School District, deeply rooted in Vermilion County farm communities, has much to celebrate, including student success, strong academic programs and an outstanding staff who care about students.

One of the many exceptional programs is agricultural, particularly with the recent recognition of Agriculture teacher Stacey Rickard, named Illinois Teacher of the Year for East Central Illinois. "We are extremely proud of the growth of our FFA and agriculture program at Salt Fork High School," said Principal Darin Chambliss, noting that nearly 65% of Salt Fork High School's students now participate in FFA. The program's growth has been remarkable, expanding from just 20-25 students in 2015 to nearly 160 students today.

Since its consolidation in 2015, Salt Fork Community Unit School District #512 has successfully unified the former Catlin and Jamaica districts, creating a stronger, more cohesive community. The district now serves 875 students across two elementary schools, one junior high, and one high school. The high school, Salt Fork High, enrolls 247 students with 19 dedicated teachers and stands out for its commitment to educational innovation. Salt Fork operates as a 1-to-1 school district, equipping each student with a Chromebook, seamlessly integrating technology into the curriculum and preparing students for college and career success.

Darin Chambliss

Salt Fork students can also access college courses and career training through a strong partnership with Danville Area Community College (DACC). This year, over 60 students are earning credits via DACC's College Express program, enhancing their educational journeys. "The school is the glue that not only brings the communities together but binds them," Chambliss added, highlighting the deep community connection Salt Fork fosters.

Beyond academics, Salt Fork's focus on mental health resources and in-person learning underscores its commitment to holistic education despite the challenges of shifting mandates and resource limitations. The district remains resilient, prioritizing students' needs and community values.

Community Celebrates Dwight Lucas: A Legacy of Service and Leadership

"I never let the situation that I grew up in be a deterrent to having a vision that I could do better, not only for myself, but for my children - Angela Jones, Dwight II, and Dwayne Lucas - my siblings, and the community. It's not what I've done; it's what I have been blessed to do."

On November 23, 2024, the Danville community gathered to honor Dwight Lucas, CCAP, for his extraordinary contributions to the city and beyond. Lucas, a former CEO of the East Central Illinois Community Action Agency, former executive director and current board president of the Laura Lee Fellowship House, U.S. Air Force veteran, current bailiff for the Vermilion County Courthouse, and co-founder of the Dustbowl Basketball Tournament, has dedicated his life to uplifting others.

The surprise celebration, themed "A Night to Remember," took place at the Laura Lee Fellowship House gymnasium. Organized by his wife, Ivora Lucas, facilitated by Honorable David A. Groves, with the help of Mrs. Kanedra Bibb, Ms. Nailah White, Ms. Brenda (Becie) Brown, Ms. Paulette White, Mr. Allen Buck, Mr. Sheron Bibb, and Ms. Nafisah Freeman, it brought together community leaders, friends, and family to celebrate Lucas's 75th birthday and recognize his decades of service.

Mayor Rickey Williams, Jr. declared November 23 as "Dwight Lucas Day," presenting a proclamation highlighting Lucas's impact on Danville. A moving program of speakers, including Retired Judge Nancy Fahey, Dr. David Fields, Mr. Victor Calloway, Dr. Delitso Sulamoyo, Ms. Kristina Dixon, Mr. Shawki White, Ms. Nataya Pelmore, and Pastor Ricky Hoskins reflected on his leadership and the countless lives he has positively influenced. The night was filled with heartfelt tributes, music played by DJ Erik Felix, and a special letter from his brother Keith Lucas, culminating with a German chocolate cake - Lucas's favorite - presented by his niece and nephew Namia Stennis and Tino Austin.

The Lucas's legacy is woven into the fabric of Danville. From his early days in the U.S. Air Force (1969–1973) to leading transformative community initiatives, his work has been guided by a constant commitment to service. As CEO of the East Central Illinois Community Action Agency (1981–2013), he spearheaded projects like the Dustbowl Basketball Tournament, which brought college and professional athletes to Danville and established critical resources such as homeless shelters, food pantries, and health clinics. He also led efforts to move the Community Action Agency to its downtown location and bring one of the first assisted living facilities to the area.

Lucas extended his reach internationally, traveling to Haiti in 2010 to help rebuild schools and health centers following a devastating earthquake. Despite a fear of flying, he embraced the mission, illustrating his belief in giving back: "If not me, who? If not now, when?"

A humble leader, Lucas attributes his success to the mentorship of community icons and the support of his family. Reflecting on the celebration, he said, "I've been blessed to do what I've done, not for fame or fortune, but to use my gift to help others."

The evening was a testament to a well-lived life and the deep respect of a grateful community inspired by Lucas's lasting example of service, leadership, and love.

Habitat for Humanity of Danville Helping Area Residents Create a Place to Call Home

Danville's Habitat for Humanity is making dreams come true by providing hope for families in need of safe and affordable housing in Vermilion County. "Habitat for Humanity is a Christian-based nonprofit organization that helps families build and improve places to call home," says Executive Director Ryan Campbell. "We believe affordable housing plays a critical role in making strong and stable communities."

Over nearly four decades, the organization has served more than 65 families, transforming individual lives and entire neighborhoods. "When Habitat takes over a neighborhood versus just one home, the entire neighborhood comes together and begins to take interest in their properties," Campbell explains. This ripple effect highlights the broader impact of their efforts.

In 2024, Habitat completed two home remodels, and two additional projects are underway in 2025. The organization hopes to embark on a new build for a local veteran, a project that underscores its commitment to those who have served.

Community support has been instrumental to Habitat's success. Volunteers remain the organization's lifeblood, contributing to projects ranging from home builds to staffing the Habitat ReStore at 422 N. Vermilion Street. The ReStore is a critical financial resource, with donations of household items arriving daily. Campbell says the value of volunteering cannot be overstated. "Bringing individuals together to help those in need is a great feeling and something Habitat takes great pride in."

Local businesses and organizations also play a significant role, providing financial contributions, expertise, and volunteer hours. These partnerships help Habitat tackle ambitious projects and put the organization's mission into action.

Habitat's annual application process opens doors for families seeking stability. Qualified families work alongside Habitat to transform houses into homes, ultimately paying back their mortgages at zero percent interest. This model ensures a foundation of self-reliance and dignity for homeowners.

For those interested in supporting Habitat for Humanity of Danville, volunteering, donating, or forming partnerships are just a few of the options. The community's involvement is vital in helping Habitat realize its vision: a world where everyone has a decent place to live. For more information, contact the organization at 217-497-4234.

OSF HealthCare Highlights Heart Health and Local Services

As February ushers in American Heart Month, OSF HealthCare Sacred Heart Medical Center in Danville is spotlighting the importance of heart health and the comprehensive cardiovascular services available to Vermilion County residents.

“Heart health should be a priority year-round,” says Dr. Ash Al-Dadah, interventional cardiologist and cardiac catheterization laboratory director at OSF HealthCare Sacred Heart Medical Center. “Preventive care is often overlooked and is the first step to help prevent catastrophic events like heart attacks.”

OSF Sacred Heart Medical Center, a 174-bed comprehensive facility, served 44,632 patients last year. The organization offers state-of-the-art medical, surgical, diagnostic, and therapeutic services, including two OSF OnCall Urgent Care locations and several OSF Medical Group offices throughout the county. With 41 physicians in Danville, including specialists in orthopedics, pulmonology, and pediatrics, OSF continues to expand its reach and resources.

Comprehensive Heart Care

Heart disease remains a leading cause of death in the United States, making the services provided by OSF Sacred Heart essential for the area. The cardiovascular team includes interventional and general cardiologists, an electrophysiologist, an invasive cardiologist, and a vascular surgeon. They offer a full spectrum of outpatient cardiovascular care, addressing conditions such as coronary artery disease, arrhythmias, peripheral vascular disease, and heart failure.

“People often underestimate the severity of symptoms,” Dr. Al-Dadah says. “The first signs of shortness of breath, chest discomfort, tiredness, or fatigue can signal underlying heart health issues. Seeking medical attention early can help mitigate the progression of the disease in severity.”

In addition to cardiovascular care, OSF Sacred Heart provides a robust cardiac rehabilitation program for patients recovering from cardiac events, including heart attacks, valve replacements, or hospitalizations for heart failure. This program is also open to the general community and offers a monitored exercise plan tailored to improving heart health.

Taking Charge of Heart Health

Maintaining heart health involves regular medical checkups, healthy lifestyle choices, and attention to warning signs.

“Routine checkups are vital for preventive health,” says Dr. Al-Dadah. “Monitoring blood pressure, checking cholesterol levels, and screening for diabetes are key steps to managing risk factors before they get out of hand.”

Diet and exercise also play significant roles in heart health. Dr. Al-Dadah recommends foods rich in fiber and antioxidants, such as fruits, vegetables, and legumes, along with lean proteins and whole grains.

Limiting sugar, salt, and processed foods is equally important.

For physical activity, even a simple walk can make a difference. “A 20-minute walk, four or five times a week, is very beneficial for the heart,” adds Dr. Al-Dadah.

OSF's Growing Impact in Vermilion County

OSF Sacred Heart is part of OSF HealthCare, a system headquartered in Peoria, Illinois, that employs over 26,000 Mission Partners at 17 hospitals across Illinois and Michigan. This extensive network ensures Vermilion County residents have access to trusted, high-quality care.

OSF Sacred Heart has expanded its services to meet the community's evolving needs in recent years. New hires include five orthopedic surgeons and three pulmonologists. The hospital continues to provide vital services, such as cancer care, women's health services, and a Family Birthing Center with pediatric support.

“We are always recruiting new talent to join our Mission,” says Dr. Al-Dadah. Area job seekers can explore opportunities at www.osfcareers.org.

OSF is dedicated to helping residents live heart-healthy lives through prevention, early detection, and comprehensive treatment.

DP Supply and Arnold's Join Forces: A New Era of Service for East Central Illinois and West Central Indiana

DP Supply, Inc., a longstanding provider of janitorial supplies and equipment, sanitary towel and tissue products, and foodservice disposables, has announced an exciting merger with Arnold's Office Supply, a trusted name in the Danville area for over 55 years. The partnership combines two deeply rooted local businesses, expanding their ability to serve customers with a comprehensive product range and enhanced customer service.

"Arnold's owner, Sarah Stuhr, approached me about the possibility of merging as she looked toward retirement," says Jim Christison, President and Owner of DP Supply, Inc. "It felt like the perfect opportunity to grow our offerings and honor the legacy of both businesses."

DP Supply began in 1918 as Danville Wholesale Paper, initially serving local butcher shops and retail stores with wrapping paper and twine. Over time, the company expanded its offerings to include cleaning products, office supplies, and breakroom essentials. Arnold's, acquired by Sarah and Gary Stuhr in the late 1980s, similarly evolved, merging with Shick School and Office Supply in 2019. The two companies have served generations of customers, often overlapping in their reach.

The merger introduces advantages like an extensive product catalog, enhanced office furnishing services, and exceptional local customer care. Two of Arnold's employees have joined DP Supply, ensuring a seamless transition, while Sarah Stuhr remains available for consulting and training.

"Our vision is to be a one-stop shop while maintaining the personal relationships both companies have nurtured," says Christison. "We're proud to remain a locally owned business and excited to offer even greater service to the community we love."

New Member Snapshot: Seven Point Dispensary

Co-Founder and CEO: Brad Zerman

Company Information: Seven Point is in East Danville, right off Lynch Road, one-half mile from the Indiana border – 380 Eastgate Drive, and currently has approximately 35 employees.

Something to know: We host Danville Farmer's Market Mini-Markets every 2nd and 3rd Saturday in April from 9am – 2pm in our community room, open to the public, adjacent to the dispensary. On MLK day, we announced the launch of our Incubator program, connecting people and communities that have been historically impacted by arrests and imprisonment for cannabis offenses to opportunities to participate in the legal cannabis industry.

Products: We have all cannabis formulations and delivery methods. We have products with all cannabinoids, including THC, CBD, CBN, and CBG, and both psychoactive and non-psychoactive formulations. Many of our products are used to relieve symptoms of insomnia, pain, and anxiety. Also, smoking is not necessary to obtain the many benefits of cannabis for everyday well-being or for various medical conditions. Tinctures, salves, transdermal, drinks, gummies and chocolates are all non-smoking options. Additionally, we have over 200 unique vinyl records, an expansive selection of accessories, and non-cannabis beverages and snacks for sale.

Loyalty Programs: We have a generous loyalty program. $1 equals one loyalty point. 250 loyalty points equals $10 in rewards. We offer discounts to veterans, seniors, students, teachers, first responders and medical patients.

Unique Features: We want our customers to feel welcome, comfortable, and well-informed. The intimate connection between cannabis + music + visual music art, including a 2000 sq ft ceiling mural designed by Ames Bros (Amesbros.com) and music memorabilia across genres and generations, contribute to the vibrant ambiance and a full sensory experience. We are the first cannabis dispensary to sell vinyl records.

Customers receive 35% off their first purchase. Our team has first-hand knowledge of our products and is well-trained in assisting customers. We also have educational technology that gives customers the ability to pick up a product (packaging), place it on a scanner, and watch a screen as the details of the product, such as the percentage of THC/CBD, the psychological and physiological effects of the product, and other related details are displayed. If the product looks good, customers are able to add it to their online cart and shop around the store on other screens, while adding additional products from other displays to their cart to be combined in our fulfillment room in back. This advanced technology helps customers learn about products from a screen with Seven Point staff available on the sales floor to assist customers with how the tech works and to answer any product related questions. There are currently over 300 products set up around the store.

Most Rewarding Aspects: Building community through a unique and local dispensary experience and our community partnership with the Danville Farmer's Market. We could not have launched our business without the help of our local team of employees.

Goals: To host diverse community-building events, including trivia, live music, open mic night, yoga, and other events that unite our customers and further build our inclusive Seven Point Community. Seven Point hopes to host such events as early as March, provided the Danville Planning Commission and City Council approve a change to their ordinance to allow on-site consumption at Seven Point in their adjacent 1200 sq space. Seven Point is ready to take their music store to the next level. Lastly, Seven Point has tentatively scheduled a blood drive on-site March 22 with more details to follow soon.

Learn More: Visit www.sevenpoint.shop, or call 217-481-3420.

New Member Snapshot: Danville Dashers

Office Manager: Jessica Mitchell

Tell us about your organization: The Dashers Hockey Club is an FPHL Federal Prospects Hockey League team. The Federal Prospects Hockey League (FPHL) is a professional ice hockey, independent minor league with teams in the Midwestern, Southern, and Northeastern United States.

Our staff includes Head Coach Steve Esau, Broadcaster/Media Devin Dobek, Equipment Manager Matt Musgrove, Trainer Anna Mitchell, Assistant Trainer Scott Mitchell, and Bus Driver/Office Executive Wayne Bruce. We have players from all over the world, including the US, Netherlands, and Canada.

What does it mean to see the team return to the area? Seeing the team returning to Danville has a lot of meaning for me and my family. We have been huge hockey fans for many years. My girls have always loved hockey, and now I have two grandsons who will get to have the same experiences that their Momma had growing up.

Tell us about tickets: Single game tickets are $14.50 for adults, $12.50 for children ages 3-12, military and seniors. We offer season tickets for $328.00 for adults and $280.00 for children 3-12, military and seniors. We also offer special tickets for groups of 25 or more. To find out more, contact me at jmitchell@dashershockey.com.

Guests can purchase single-game tickets at the arena box office, M- F from 10 AM to 4 PM, and two hours before each home game.

What role does community support play in your return, and how do you plan to engage fans this season?

Community support is huge, with local business sponsorships, community and fans filling the arena's seats. My husband, Scott Mitchell, has planned some new games to get the fans involved in the intermissions. We are also working on autism and cancer specialty jerseys. On December 7th, Terminix sponsored a teddy bear toss. The first 500 fans received a team poster photo, and we will have an autograph session after the game. We are currently looking for opportunities to get the team out in the community. We have a booster club that everyone is welcome to join.

What partnerships or initiatives are you launching to strengthen the team's presence in the community?

We are planning a "Sock it to Me night" with Fair Hope Ministry and Senator Faraci's office to do a sock drive where we fans bring in socks for local children.

How can people learn more about your organization? Visit www.dashershockey.com or find us on Facebook and X.

Someone to Know: Ashton Greer

Ashton Greer is in the business of helping Danville grow. This proud mom of three boys (and one cute dog) serves as the Chief Operating Officer of the Zindars Conglomerate. Her dynamic role spans four companies: Zindars Property Management, Zindars Property Development, Westwood Equity Partners, and Danville Ready Rental. Ashton's work is rooted in improving systems, fostering company culture, and driving productivity. "Every day, I get to help make Danville a better place by improving the effectiveness of these companies," she shares with her trademark smile.

A lifelong advocate for community revitalization, Ashton co-owns a commercial property development company and holds ownership in four downtown Danville properties. Her love for restoring old buildings is a family legacy. "Growing up, my mom always pointed out properties on road trips," Ashton reflects. "She and my dad completely restored a Victorian-era home during my childhood, and I guess I inherited that love."

Among her proudest accomplishments is the restoration of 137 N Vermilion Street, a vibrant hub for community connection. Currently, she's working to transform 8 E North Street into a bar and restaurant, adding new energy to Danville's downtown.

Ashton's path to success wasn't without challenges. Starting college as a young mother, she graduated summa cum laude with a master's in organizational leadership. Her early career in public service laid the groundwork for her transition to executive leadership and entrepreneurship.

Balancing her busy professional life with motherhood is a testament to her dedication. "Roman, Jameson, and Solomon are truly the most wonderful things that have ever happened to me," she says. Ashton also credits her parents for shaping her character, adding, "I get my spirit and empathy from my mom and my wisdom and gentleness from my dad."

Passionate about empowering others, Ashton co-chairs a Founding Females group for local female entrepreneurs and serves as president of the Vermilion Heritage Foundation. Her motto, "Start small, grow tall," encapsulates her approach to community building.

Ashton Greer's blend of ambition, creativity, and heart is transforming Danville, one property - and one meaningful connection - at a time.
